

Luxury Watches Manufactured in England

www.iwiwatches.com

IWI Watches are the inspiration of Ian Walsh, a young English watchmaker and are a truly English brand. Situated in the heart of Lancashire, IWI Watches have brought the skills more usually associated with Switzerland to the home of the cotton mill.

IWI Watches are luxury watches made in England to the highest possible standards. Using the latest technology at every step to design and create these modern classics, combined with the finest materials and components.

Every IWI Watch has an individually machined and numbered case which is turned from the finest stainless steel, this is then hand finished. The finest quality Swiss Automatic movements are used in all the watches.

IWI watches have been received by the trade and public alike with incredible enthusiasm and have been cited as being a breath of fresh air. The watches pay homage to both motorsport and aviation simultaneously, with the oversized crown sat proudly at 12 o'clock for the aviator and the classic dials re-awakening thoughts of Moss and Fangio charging for the line.

Initially IWI watches are launching a watch with three different finishes and two different dials giving a core range of six great new watches.
